

I am deeply upset about the MTV commercial being aired on the Nick stations advertising the 2004 MTV movie awards. In the spot, two women are featured kissing each other! It aired 06/08/2004 at 1720, then we turned the station. My three young children will no longer be watching. I think this is highly irresponsible of a children's network to expose young children to things that are better suited for mature audiences. They should know better and be fined! Could you please point me in the right direction in order to complain directly to the network?